Examples of CA Operations

1. Some months ago you asked C/CA to look into the possibility of summarizing types of CA operations for training purposes. This PRG undertook at the time, completing the basic work before I joined the Staff. Only recently, however, has the material been reproduced here for class use and will be introduced in OC #12 as required reading (See attachments). We are limiting distribution to the JOTs for review in a prescribed interval because of its sensitivity. As opportunity permits we shall add other examples and replace some of those now included with more significant illustrations.

2. Part I summarizes for the first time doctrine relating to several of the types of CA operations listed in the Table of Contents, and you may wish, therefore, to subject it to a critical examination. Your perception of the need for vignettes of the sort set out in Part II I hope will lend added emphasis to the efforts of the Operating Divisions to get more down on paper that can be used in training. I found, for example, that the bulk of reference and training documents used in the CA portion of the JOT Program consisted of papers in the St. Doctrine and Techniques series. One of the better
